

Mission Statement

Hope for Wondering Amish was born out of the burden of a group of brothers who had a desire to help those who were leaving or had left their Amish communities.

After leaving the moorings of their past, many of these people have ended up embracing the theological errors of Augustine, Martin Luther and others. While we recognize the lack of a vital Christian experience in many Amish communities, we also recognize many good values in this culture as well. It is our desire to help those who decide to leave the Amish pursue the historic faith and successfully sort through what is worth keeping and what should be left go.

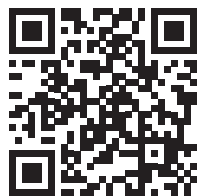

Our vision is to provide sound biblical materials and genuine fellowship for our audiences so they can understand the Bible through the lens of what Jesus lived and taught.

Our mission isn't to pull Amish from their communities, but to help those that have left or plan to leave their communities grow in their faith in Christ.
